Let it be no dear deer after 5 p. m. this day.

The recapture of Chihuahua City by the Carranzistas was accomplished after the Villistas had left—easy conquest.

The farmers and the weather-wise will tell you that this rainy weather is just what the ground needs for its pre-winter preparation. Therefore, we can stand a little inconvenience.

The wiping out of 1,000 lives by a cyclone in French India doesn't raise a tremor in these days, when men are shooting off their fellows at the rate of thousands a day.

The prospects of Brown and Dartmouth getting together on the gridiron next fall are good, which is as it should be because these two institutions are natural rivals in the sporting field. The only possible drawback is that they may get together too hard.

The recent conference between state officials and officials of the Automobile Club of Vermont ought to result in the framing of certain pieces of motor vehicle legislation that will be beneficial to the state, providing, of course, the legislature sees fit to enact the proposals into law. Admittedly, there are some abuses of motor vehicle travel that should be eliminated, and the members of the recent conference are in a position to know what the abuses are and how they can be done away with, in part, at least.

The fatal injury sustained by a former Rutland man when struck by a taxicab in a New York City street calls attention sharply to the statistics of the street mortality in the metropolis. During the first 11 months of the present calendar year there were 363 deaths from automobiles, as compared with 312 killings during the same period of time during the preceding year. The use of motor vehicles on New York streets has come to the point where pedestrians are not safe when they attempt to go anywhere except upon the sidewalks, and there is not full assurance of safety even when pedestrians keep carefully to the sidewalks. New York City has a big problem to solve in giving decent protection to the people.

WILLIAMSTOWN

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Bailey and ward, Miss Pansy Trow, and Mrs. Gregory of Montpelier, and Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Bailey and son, Frank, of Williamstown, spent Thanksgiving with Mrs. J. F. Bailey and had the pleasure of eating grapes raised by B. L. Bailey of California, from vines set by him less than two years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Hiram S. Drury motored to Woodsville, N. H., the day before Thanksgiving, having as passenger, Charles M. Seaver, who joined his wife there for a few days. Mr. Drury then went to East Corinth, where he was the guest of Nat Abbott for the remainder of the week.

Among the students who were at home for a brief vacation last week may be mentioned Miss Doris Covell, and Ruth and Richard Martin from Brigham academy, Bakersfield; Misses Lena Seaver, Hazel Wright, Mona McKee, and Worth Jeffords from Goddard and Misses Edna Waldo and Mariah Erskine, Gilman Irons and James Marr from Montpelier seminary.

Archie R. Cram, teacher of the grammar school at East Barre, spent a part of last week at the home of his wife's parents in Northfield, and returned here in time to play baritone with the band on the occasion of their concert on Friday evening.

Vernon G. Savery is putting up a building 18x42 feet to be used this winter in part for a horse barn and later to serve as granary, wagon shed and garage. Leslie Savery has charge of the carpenter work.

Henry B. Waldo and family, with the exception of Ernest, journeyed to Plainfield last Thursday, where they were hospitably entertained by Mr. Waldo's sister, Mrs. E. J. Colby. It has been their custom for many years to visit each other alternately on Thanksgiving day each year, and though the weather was not favorable for traveling, the trip was made.

The concert and dance given by the band at grange hall last Friday night was a very pleasant affair, the gallery being well filled to listen to the concert, and about thirty couples staying for the dance, which continued till 12 o'clock. Music was furnished by George Simons, violinist, Clarence McDermont, cornet and Mrs. Ada Reed at the piano. The affair was for the most part attended by townspeople, though a few were present from Barre and Montpelier.

Word is received from Rev. George F. Fortier of St. Albans that he has a large amount of work on hand for December and the service in the Universalist church that was announced for the 10th is accordingly postponed till later. Due notice will be given.

Avoid having your packages containing Christmas presents caught in the rush that always exists on postal cars and at terminal stations the few days preceding this holiday by sending them early. It is allowable to mark them "do not open till Christmas" if you wish. A week or even ten days is none too much to allow if packages are to be sent any distance. Remember that packages do not go direct at this time, but are dispatched to terminal offices and extra time must be allowed. George L. Wilber, postmaster.

The Home Study club will meet with Mrs. E. J. Clogston on Thursday afternoon, Dec. 7, at 2:15. Quotations from Emerson. Subject, "Moral and Spiritual Effects of the European War."

William B. Jones and Jason E. Martin went to Boston on Thanksgiving day to attend the meetings being held there by Mr. Sunday. They attended two services on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, returning on the night train Sunday night.

Carl W. Seaver, substitute carrier on route No. 3, covered the route on the 1st and 2d of the month, regular carrier, H. S. Drury being away on leave of absence for the time. Mr. Seaver's son, Hugh, was home for the same period from his duties as rural carrier at Randolph.

Word is received from Walter E. Granger and Rev. Alven M. Smith that they, with their wives, have arrived at Long Beach, Cal., after a fairly pleasant trip. They are planning to stay at this place for a short time before making other visits.

The Rural Good Luck club will meet with Mrs. Denny J. Briggs next Saturday afternoon at 2 p. m. Topic, "Washington, D. C."

George Marr, who lately finished work in the stonesheds in Barre left town last night for Hartford, Conn., where he expects to find employment in the Cape-well horse-nail factory.

Hiram S. Drury, whose house on Beckett street was lately vacated by Lee A. French, is moving into it himself. He has for some time been with his sisters, Mrs. Ida E. Whitcomb and Miss Millie J. Drury, on Northfield street.

Among those of our townspeople, who were home for the Thanksgiving vacation were Miss Dorothy Simons, a teacher in the graded schools of St. Johnsbury; Miss Gladys Martin, a student in the Johnson Normal school; John L. Winchester, employed by the Union Granite Co., Waterbury.

Regular communication of Summit lodge, No. 104, F. and A. M., Wednesday evening, Dec. 6, at 7:30. Work, M. M. degree.

MIDDLESEX

Mackinaws

You know the kind of mackinaw coats we've sold for the past three years. You know they're as good as any made.

You know we guarantee the quality, the color, and the price, and say! did you know we had cut the price on a few that we carried over from last year?

Fifteen left this morning and automatically reduced 10 per cent. each day this week. To-day a $10.00 coat is $8.10; Tuesday, $7.30, etc.

Watch our window.
